

Online Proposal Routing and Approval

Reviewing a Proposal: For Approvers

The Online Proposal Routing and Approval system allows a principal investigator to create a project proposal online, upload documents associated with that proposal, and submit the proposal to Sponsored Programs, the department chair, other approvers, and the Provost and Dean of Faculty.

After the proposal is submitted, all approvers may view the proposal and the documents. At this stage, Sponsored Programs conducts a preliminary review of the proposal documents and is the only approver who can add/delete files. Sponsored Programs can request that the principal investigator comment or update the record, and add other designated approvers to the routing sequence as needed. After this initial approval, the proposal is routed to the department chair(s).

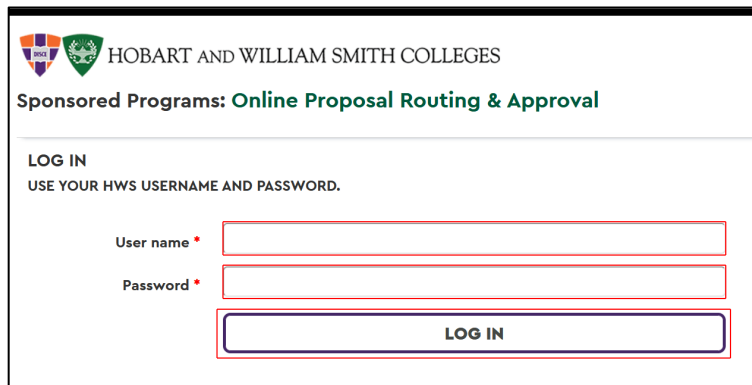

After the department chair has approved the proposal, the routing transitions from sequential to parallel routing, allowing all other approvers (except the Provost) to approve. Once all of the approvers at this level have signed off, the proposal is routed again to Sponsored Programs for a penultimate approval before being released to the Provost for final approval.

Once the proposal has been routed to the Provost, only Sponsored Programs can update the proposal or make updates on behalf of the principal investigator or other approvers. Throughout the process, all the approvers may access the submitted proposals and related materials and make comments on each proposal.

To review a new proposal:

The reviewers group will receive an e-mail when a proposal is submitted for review (as well as when other actions, such as document upload, are made related to a proposal). Sponsored Programs must conduct a preliminary review before the department chair, who must approve the proposal before the other reviewers may approve it (although all reviewers can access the proposal to view the documents and other details).
