Community: The Impact of Collaboration and Teamwork

Jack Harris, Professor of Sociology

College is a time to discover yourself, and also how you make a difference to your community and your society. Who are you? What do you know? What can you do? You will, in so many places and spaces, lead. How you respond to the intellectual and social challenges of leadership will set your course -- that is how others will come to know you and what you stand for. What is leadership, and how does civic engagement, and your life in the HWS community, provide learning opportunities and test cases by which you will find your “true north,” your own compass and character?

- Monday, September 24th

Navigating Challenges and Finding Balance

DeWayne Lucas, Interim Provost

Greeks face an array of contradictions which call on them to be responsible members and role models of the community to organizers of fun, mayhem, and frivolity for the campus. Within that range of views of the role of today’s fraternity are multiple points of pressure individuals, alums, the student body, the administration, the campus and the community. This session will discuss strategies for managing those pressure points.

- Monday, October 1st

Empowerment: Not Just Fluff

Brandon Barile, Assistant Vice President and Dean of Student Engagement

Empowerment sounds like self-help, book-on-an-endcap-at-Walmart stuff. But, did you know that each year, at least 10% of the students who take a course within the Personal Empowerment Institute are Greek members? It’s not about thinking positively all the time, but rather thinking productively and with empathy. All of the time? Well, as much as possible. This program will outline the basic foundation of critical thinking and cognitive reframing, and emphasize how leaders can develop these skills in others. As a result of participating in the Empowerment program, participants will be able to describe ways they may implement two concepts from the hour with their respective groups via an exit ticket.

- Monday, October 15th

Integrity and Character

- Dr. Montrose Streeter, Associate Vice President for Campus Life and Dean of Students

Greek organizations often include the words integrity and character, or some similar expression of adherence to core values, in their mission statements. Our time together will involve an exploration of the meanings of integrity and character, their importance for effective leadership, and how their presence or absence affects life in community. Each participant will have a chance to reflect on the family, cultural, and religious resources that shape and clarify his fundamental values and consider how those values are tested and refined in everyday situations.

- Monday, October 22nd
Diversity and Inclusion
Khuram Hussain, Interim Dean of the Hobart College
Jacob Bartholomew, Visiting Professor
- In this session, we will engage in a dialogue about the relationship between social justice and the Greek community. We will highlight recent, high-profile examples within the Greek community when that relationship has been severed and how to build more inclusive Greek communities. Participants should be prepared to examine their own individual and chapter commitment to engaging in social justice.
- October 17th -AOD Session with Brittany Broderick, Director of Alcohol and Other Drugs and Acting Director of Residential Education
- November 7th -Unpacking Greek Masculinity and Social Justice Dialogue with Visiting Professor Jacob Bartholomew
